MAGNITUDE OF G. O. P. VICTORY GROWS AS RETURNS SLOWLY FILTER IN

MAJORITIES UNPARALLELED IN PARTY HISTORY ARE RECORDED IN DEMOCRATIC STRONGHOLDS

Over Million Lead For Harding and Coolidge in New York.

REPUBLICANS SWEEP OHIO

By Associated Press

NEW YORK Nov 3—One of the most sweeping Republican victories in party history today stood recorded for Senator Warren G Harding for President and a Republican Congress

Tremendous and unparalleled Republican pluralities beginning with the first count of ballots in yesterday's election continued mounting today

Defeat in their fight both for the Presidency and Congress was conceded early by Democratic national leaders on the basis of the crashing Republican vote and despite the absence even early today

MARION Nov 3—No longer a party nominee but President elect of the U S Senate Warren G Harding turned his thoughts toward rest and recreation today before approaching the formulation of his administration machinery and policy

He planned to take a real vacation trip which will give him two weeks of seclusion on the Texas coast and a week in the Panama canal zone before he goes seriously to work to choose his cabinet and mapping out the work he is to do after March 4 A few tag ends of the campaign remain to be cleared away from his desk first however and he will devote the next two or three days to rounding out his affairs He probably will leave here Saturday not to return again until about mid-December

Satisfied of his own sweeping victory the new President elect watched the congressional returns to determine how great would be the party strength in the Senate and House Throughout his campaign he had declared he did not want the presidency unless there was to be a Republican Congress to insure teamwork in the federal government and he expressed gratification today at the assurance that the voters had responded to his appeal

COLUMBUS Nov 3—Ohio the home of the Democratic and Republican candidates yesterday cast its vote decisively in favor of Warren G Harding the Republican candidate His election came on his 55th birthday anniversary

On returns from 1128 of the 7115 precincts in the state early today Senator Harding was leading his opponent by 196 070

DAYTON O Nov 3—Governor Cox, the defeated Presidential candidate today wired his congratulations to Senator Harding the president elect pledging support "as a citizen to the executive authority in whatever emergency might arise His message says

"In the spirit of America I accept the decision of the majority tender as the defeated candidate my congratulations and pledge as a citizen my support to the executive authority in whatever emergency might arise

MARION O Nov 3—Although nothing authoritative has come from Mr Harding or any of his close advisers as to the probable cabinet selections fo the new administration campaign gossip has included repeated mention of several prominent Republicans for cabinet posts

Among many names whispered by the self-constituted cabinet makers in connection with the post of secretary of state are those of Henry C Lodge Dlihu Root Philander C Knox and Charles E Hughes

Mr Root and Mr Knox both are former heads of the State Department and Mr Hughes the Republican presidential nominee four years ago has been a close student of the League of Nations fight

Herbert Hoover the former food administrator has been talked about in many quarters for many posts but the gossip has assigned him most frequently to the treasury or internal departments

KANSAS CITY Nov 3—With returns from about one fifth of Kansas tabulated early today indications were that the Republican ticket was elected by large pluralities

PORTLAND Me Nov 3—In a total vote of 13,000 less than that cast in the state election in September Maine yesterday gave Harding a plurality of 70 333 over Cox 11 000 more than the plurality given Parkhurst for governor

TRENTON N J Nov 3—By majorities greater than in any national election since McKinley in 1896 the Republican tickets of nation and state yesterday carried New Jersey with incomplete returns indicating a plurality of a quarter million vote for Harding

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 3—Senator Harding's lead in California continued to increase as delayed returns came in Returns from 2 313 precincts out of 6 151 gave Cox 94 9— Harding 271 101 Debs 10 36 Watkins 591

In the senatorial fight 1 321 precincts gave Senator James Phelan Democrat 109 172 Samuel M Shortridge Republican 1 " 910

LOUISVILLE Ky Nov 3 Kentucky gave Cox a substantial majority re elected United States Senator J C W Beckham Democrat on the face of the returns chose seven Democratic and three Republican congressmen

Last unofficial figures from more than three fourths of the voting precincts in the state gave Governor Cox a lead of more than 35 000 Returns from the mountain region were slow and were expected to trim the Democratic lead somewhat

AVALANCHE OF REPUBLICAN VOTES IN CITY SWEEPS DEMOCRATIC WORKERS OFF FEET

Republicans in for a clean sweep in this city yesterday carried out in full of that ticket getting a big majority over his Democratic opponent led by Senator Harding in the presidential race senatorial congressional and legislative candidates followed with varying leads all of which indicated the determination of the American people to change the administration of the country

There were remarkably few split tickets in the city as a whole The total vote for the seven wards was in the neighborhood of 10 This is practically the entire city registration

For President Harding carried every city ward Penrose also in ahead in all wards as did Snyder for state treasurer and the Republican candidates for Congress at large and the legislature

Kendall won over Sterling in every ward but the Second Third and Sixth Kendall's total was 1 739 Sterling 1 577 In the Sixth Kendall suffered his greatest set-back In the Second the Sterling workers only pulled him through by a margin of 12 votes In the Third the vote was also close

In the First Fourth Fifth and Seventh Congressman Kendall ran well ahead of his Democratic opponent carrying some wards by 111 votes which equalled the Sterling vote two years ago

The total vote in the city for Senator Harding was 2 031 This compared with 1 233 for Governor Cox The remaining 171 presidential votes cast were divided among the Socialist Prohibition and Labor party candidates

The contest for Congress at large and legislative offices did not create any stir here It was Republican by a large majority in every ward

The highest legislative vote was for Kendall Sterling came first for Congress Sterling found himself being pulled everywhere A SINGLE WARD WORKER GOT BETTER RESULTS IN THAT PART OF THE CITY THAN WERE SECURED ANYWHERE ELSE IN THE CITY In the ward alone Sterling had a big majority He got 235 votes to 87 for his Republican adversary

The first ward to return its count on the Sterling Kendall race was the Fifth That ward went to Kendall 236 to 211 a majority of 25 Two years ago Sterling carried this ward

Kendall's majority in the First ward was 11 There he received 297 votes and Sterling polled 146 The Socialist candidate Lepley trailed far behind

Kendall lost by 12 votes in the Second Polling 183 on the Republican ticket and seven on the Prohibition he made a total of 190 Sterling workers scraped together 202 votes for their candidate

The Third also went to Sterling Here he received a vote of 343 ballots precisely the same as was given to Kendall in the Fifth Kendall however received a larger vote in the Third than did Sterling in the Fifth getting 268 giving the Democratic candidate a majority of 75

The Fourth was also undeniably for Kendall Polling a total vote of 318 he received 303 on the Republican ticket and 15 on the Prohibition Sterling received a poll of 223 votes losing the ward by 89

In the Sixth ward the vote would indicate there was a great splitting of tickets Kendall received only 87 to 235 for Sterling Even this setback however did not cut down his lead sufficiently to carry the city for Sterling

The return sheet of the Seventh ward this morning shows that Kendall polled 136 votes to 117 for Sterling a majority of 19 A claim has been made by Edward L Duggan that the count recorded on the return sheet is not straight and he asserts he is going to give his own and secure three other affidavits to that effect

Senator Harding carried the First ward by 173 votes the Second by 75 votes the Third by 12 the Fourth by 15 the Fifth by 25 the Sixth by 50 and the Seventh by 109 a clean majority of 798 in the city

Senator Penrose carried the city by a majority of 30 He defeated Patrick Democratic candidate in every ward but the Third The First he carried by 164 the Second by 39 the Fourth by 131 the Fifth by 65 the Sixth by 13 and the Seventh by 127 In the Third Penrose lost by the narrow margin of 11 votes 343 to 332 for Farrell

The Republican candidates ran away ahead of the Democratic aspirants Burke polled a total of 2 013 in the city Garland got 1 914 McLaughlin received 1 908 and Walters pulled down 1 890 The Democrats were seven hundred below the Republican totals Bowman received 1 113 votes in the city Bracken received 1 170 Hanlan 1 126 and McDonough 1 100 There was not one ward in the city where a Democratic candidate for this office polled a higher vote than a Republican

For the Legislature Kooser in Kooser of this city polled the largest vote in the seven wards He received a total of 2 041 Smith Republican ran second polling 2 008 The other Republican candidate Sinclair was given a vote of 1 929 Harry Cochran Democrat also running on the Republican ticket led that group polling 1 282 votes J D Madigan also on the Democratic ticket ran second to Howard polling 1 221 Robert Howard polled 1 117 The Socialist candidates Clifford May and Mellinger polled a total vote of 83

RETURNS IN SEVENTH WARD CROOKED, ED. DUGGAN DECLARES

It was claimed by Edward L Duggan Democrat and Republican worker in this morning that the count in that ward given on the return sheet filed there is not straight as represented to congressional vote

Mr Duggan stated that he has affidavits from the Sterling Kendall count in the ward The total then given he said was 91 votes to Kendall and 145 to Sterling a majority of 146 for the Republican candidate This morning on the return sheet the vote was given 236 for Kendall and 197 for Sterling

Duggan said he was willing to take affidavit to the count he saw made last night and could also produce three others who would make affidavit to the same

The vote last night he said gave Kendall 201 votes through straight Republican tickets This alone is more than the 236 he is credited with on the sheet today Of the 236 votes 1[illegible] received on the sheet 16 of them are marked in the Prohibition column

Sterling received 86 straight Democratic votes Duggan said The Prohibitionists he claims gave Kendall 1[illegible] votes and Sterling none On split tickets Sterling received a total of 59 votes and Kendall 15 he also says this statement should cause the election board with failing to give a straight count in the final return.

What is Nuxated Iron?

Physician Explains — Says Public Ought to Know What They Are Taking — Practical Advice on What to Do to Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles

The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over four million people annually and that so many physicians are prescribing it as a tonic strengthener and blood builder in weak nervous breakdown conditions has led to an investigation of its merits by prominent physicians and others who feel it should be of great importance to the public generally Among these is the statement made by Dr Julius Francis Sail an honorary physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept) New York and Westchester County Hospital who says When one patient after another keeps making my opinion of Nuxated Iron I feel it is time to pay attention to the subject and I do so for myself whether or not it possesses the real value claimed by its manufacturers and attested to by so many prominent people It is exactly what I believe every honest conscientious physician should do before prescribing or lending his endorsement to any product whatsoever If an article is worthless all practitioners ought to find out first hand of it so that injurious weeds in duty bound to recommend it for the welfare of our patients A study of the composition of the Nuxated Iron formula so impressed me with the therapeutic efficacy of the product that I thoroughly tested it in a number of obstinate cases So quickly did it increase the strength energy and endurance of my patients to whom it was administered that I became fully convinced of its remarkable value as a tonic and blood builder I have since taken it myself with excellent results There are thousands of delicate nervous run down folks who need iron but they do not know what to take I refer to Nuxated Iron I have urgently suggested the widespread publication of the sworn statement of the composition of the formula so that the public may know what they are taking This complete formula is now to be found in newspapers throughout the country It is a combination of organic iron in the form of compounds of a special specific standard and glycerophosphates which is one of the most easily tonic nutrients known To the credit of the manufacturers it may be said that they use the most expensive form of iron peptonate whereas by employing other makes they could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one fourth the cost by using metallic iron they could have reduced the cost to less than one-twelfth but by thus sacrificing the product they would undoubtedly have impaired its therapeutic efficacy In my opinion a careful examination of this formula by any physician or pharmacist should convince him that Nuxated Iron is to be placed among the very highest class and most strictly ethical preparations known to medical science It excels anything I have ever used in building up the system and increasing the red blood corpuscles thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease

WEDNESDAY EVEG. NOV. 3, 1920.

The Seductive Bunny

Latrobe Bulletin

For all that the train callers might have raised their voices in the Pennsylvania railroad station, in Pittsburg yesterday afternoon it is very doubtful if they could have been heard because of other noises, unusual in their character, emanating from stores of beagle hounds and other varieties of rabbit dogs being led into the station awaiting the departure of trains

In stations and on baggage cars the doleful and piercing yelp of the hounds held sway while in the smoking cars of the different trains nearly every other man wore upon his sleeve a hunter's permit

On the Lincoln highway every other machine eastward bound bore men and dogs and gun cases and shells and pollack stockings en route to the lair of the loving Bunny

In Latrobe last night dozens of alarm clocks were set for unearthly hours of the morning and at the first ringing of their bells, men and boys were out of bed and into their hunting clothes

From city and from town—from village and from farm house men and boys with guns and dogs started for the fields and the woods to be on hand for the opening day of the rabbit season—the really first day of the hunting season in Pennsylvania

There were so many of them one might have feared that there would not be a single rabbit left by night to tell the tale of the strenuous beginning of the open season

But despite the frequency with which hound gave tongue and the double-barreled gun barked this morning and this afternoon old timers seemed to think that twilight would find the rabbits still alive

The rabbit may be easily killed providing one gets a shot at the young jumping cunning little bundle of fur—but the rabbit is a wise old boy at time and a rabbit hole in a hollow tree a stone pile a brush pile or what not is a place a rabbit never forgets It his heaven of days like today and the old timers say that despite the army of hunters afield there still will be left a few rabbits to make tracks for the hounds to follow tomorrow and the day after—in fact as thought that even on the fourteenth of December a hard-working hound may still be able to find a scent and to give forth the yelping which will be music to the owner's ears

Corrects a Correction of a Correction "In Save The News.

(Communicated)

In view of The Courier's re-publication of a supposed quotation from my sermon of last Sunday, together with a correction which I attempted to give The News over the phone I wish to make the following statement

The assertion that I "drew attention to the fact that of all the candidates for Congress from the districts in this section of the state only two have pledged themselves against any and every attempt to weaken the Volstead Act is without the slightest foundation I did not mention the Volstead Act or refer in any way, during the sermon, to it or to the candidates for Congress

The thought of the quotation as well as the reference that was drawn then from originated in some other brain than mine

The Cost of Living

During the last few months the prices of practically all staple articles of food and clothing have declined to more or less extent.

In continuance of its policy to provide first quality merchandise at lowest possible prices, Union Supply Company stores have been foremost in these reductions—ranging from five to sixty per cent.

Only when it is borne in mind that Union Supply Company prices were already at a minimum does the real significance of this price-decline become apparent.

Union Supply Company patrons also have the assurance of immediate advantage in prices which the market may make possible in the future, in addition to those they now enjoy.

For farmers, too

Built especially to stand up under hard use in mines—the hardest possible kind of wear—the U. S. Bootee and the U. S. Boot are now being adopted by farmers everywhere who know the value of sturdy, comfortable rubber footwear.

Built for miners—

double strength where wear is hardest

"U. S." Boots—made in all sizes and styles: white, red and black. Reinforced where the wear is hardest

BORING, blasting, swinging a pick for hours at a stretch—the hardest work you do is twice as hard if your shoes aren't right.

Here's a real miner's rubber shoe: absolutely watertight, as comfortable as leather, and built for the roughest wear. It's the U. S. Bootee.

Shaped on the famous U. S. Army last—with a double thick sole and a special feltex innersole—every point of strain backed up with extra layers of solid rubber—it's a big, tough, rugged shoe that'll stand the hardest sort of wear and yet give solid comfort all day long.

U. S. Bootees come in two styles—high and low. Ask your dealer to show you a pair.

Be sure to look for the U. S. Seal—it means solid wear and long service for your money.

The Housewifes Burden

When a woman is almost distracted from overwork, her home is in disorder, crying children, and on top of all is suffering from backache, bearing down pains, or some other form of feminine ills, then she should remember that hundreds of women in just her condition have been restored to health and regained their youthful strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and not rest until she has given it a fair trial.

Proof that it Restored the Health of These Two Women

Cairo, Ill.—"Some time ago I got so bad with female trouble that I thought I would have to be operated on. I had a bad displacement. My right side would pain me and I was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water. Many times I would have to stop my work and sit down or I would fall on the floor in a faint. I consulted several doctors and every one told me the same but I kept fighting to keep from having the operation. I had read so many times of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped my sister so I began taking it. I have never felt better than I have since then and I keep house and am able to do all my work. The Vegetable Compound is certainly one grand medicine."—Mrs. J. M. Harrmuss, 2311 Sycamore Street, Cairo, Ill.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby came when I could no longer keep up. It strength ed my back and relieved me of the ill effect which so often develops at such times. That was my first experience with the Vegetable Compound. Years afterwards I took it during the Change of Life and got along so well I scarcely ever had to lie down during the day and seldom had dizzy, fainting spells. I am now well and strong, can do all my housework with perfect ease and it is a comfort to me to be able to say to other suffering women 'take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and be strong.' I will be glad to have you use my name if it will be the means of helping any one."—Mrs. R. A. Fannin, 608 Orchard Knob Ave., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"GRAZING hogs is the economical way of pork making in use the world over. While we hog down corn more frequently each year in the North, the ideal place for establishing a hog cafeteria is perhaps under Southern skies

"In the North the second litter of pigs in a year which is the profit making litter calls for special care and housing to make such breeding profitable Cold weather always makes gains in live weight expensive

"In the Northern states thirty per cent of the feed consumed in the winter goes to keeping up the animal heat.

Then what is the reason people think that the corn belt is the only place to raise hogs" asks Mr Frank Bancks V P American Steel & Wire Company "Denmark raises no corn yet produces more pork of the highest quality than any other equal area in the world The Southern states still buy vast quantities of pork from the North despite the fact that their experiment stations have demonstrated that it can be produced at lower cost in the South

"Of course under certain circumstances the hog raiser is greatly disappointed with his profits but take the hog all in all he is the greatest little mortgage raiser we have

by

Louis Joseph Vance

Author of "The False Faces," "The Lone Wolf," Etc.

Illustrated by
IRWIN MYERS

(Copyright, 1920, by the Author.)

Bound by his pledge to Priscilla not to consult the police, discreet employment of channels of information provided by a wide acquaintance among newspaper men nevertheless brought him all police headquarters knew about the Bielinsky affair. Nothing was known concerning the party in the room at Ristori's by way of which the Russian escaped after adding two murders to his score. The name of Red Carnehan had not been mentioned in connection with the crime. There was, however, such a person, a notorious gang-leader of the lower East side.

Considering it essential that he should learn more of Mr. Carnehan and his friends, and perceiving but one way to gain that information without breaking his promise to Priscilla, Philip adopted it without more hesitation.

On the following morning Priscilla, calling up his office, was informed that Doctor Fosdick had been suddenly called out of town on a case of vital importance.

IV. MERE PAINT AND CANVAS?

After one week of gadding about, of shopping and theaters and dances and motoring, Priscilla felt quite fed up with distractions. She wanted to get back to her work, and wouldn't be happy till she did.

And why not? she demanded when she failed to get Philip on the telephone and secure his professional permission to return to her studio. "A few days" of trifling was all he had stipulated; and those few had served. She dreamed no more of Leonora or Red Carnehan or Mario. Today, all that, indeed, seemed remote and unimportant. What though she had dreamed a nightmare which coincided so mysteriously with actual events as to scare her nearly out of her wits? After all, it was at worst a dream; and in this delightfully substantial and matter-of-fact world, coincidences don't count with anybody except novelists hard up for a plot. . . .

She found Ada Moyer pottering with a hopeless daub of still life, spent most of the morning giggling and gossiping, carried her off to the Ritz for luncheon, and left her there with some friends who needed a fourth at bridge; an arrangement perfectly agreeable to Priscilla; it was hard enough at any time to settle down to work after a spell of idling, it was the next thing to an impossibility with Ada on the premises.

The quiet of the empty studio was soothing and grateful. Priscilla sighed contentedly, wheeled the heavy easel over to its stand beside the pier glass, shrugged into a paint-smeared smock, and in the next fifteen minutes did nothing whatever but sit in a chair before the self-portrait, in stirless, intent study of her work.

Again it seemed good in her sight, decidedly the best thing she had ever done; and yet she was dissatisfied; something was wrong, something was missing without which it could not prove convincing.

The head she must not touch, lest one misjudged stroke mar the excellence of its spirited gesture. Neither could she see any way to improve her painting of the figure. The folds of the skirt needed some little attention, not much, possibly half an hour's work. . . . No; the fault was in a background treated in a fashion too academic and tame to suit that brilliant counterfeit of life.

The Head She Must Not Touch.

At length, rising, Priscilla took up her palette and from fat shining tubes squirted upon its satiny surface sleek coils of color.

For hours she worked steadily, absorbed, till a premature change in the light broke the spell. With a slight frown of annoyance she looked up to find the frosted glass of the north-light overcast with pale blue shadow. No matter; her task was ended, and sooner than she had thought it would be. A few days more and she could varnish. . . .

She put aside brushes and palette, shut the windows (through which now a cold, strong draught was blowing) drew the draperies close, and returned to the chair before the portrait.

Reverie led her insensibly back to memories of the Street of Strange Faces whose dim reaches stretched away indefinitely behind that painted shape of dream. The effect of return to old associations grew strong, she could veritably see, she could almost smell and hear the Street . . .

She knew a period of mental uncertainty, of daze and wonder, out of which grew the sensation she had once before experienced of confusion of identity with the woman in the portrait. Inexplicably something impalpable yet essential seemed to go out from her to the other, with whose spiritual essence it blended intimately, so that for the moment she had no true existence save upon that painted surface, where she paused, hesitant, doubtful, confused, as on some dark strange threshold, before passing on and away into a vague half world, a place of vast and shapeless spaces where there was neither light nor darkness, wherein consciousness grew faint and the sense of Self was blotted out entirely . . .

V. BEYOND THE THRESHOLD.

Out of nothingness, out of a sort of inert chaos, spectral walls like veils of mist took shape, closed in, added unto themselves a floor and ceiling, assumed a semblance of stability, became a boxlike room wherein her spirit was pent in a mood of sluggish and melancholy mutiny; a room hatefully familiar to her in its every hideous detail: its poisonous wall paper, stained ceiling and threadbare linoleum, its iron sink in the corner, its rude chairs and common table cluttered with soiled crockery and a gas stove linked to an overhead jet by frayed tubing, its shelf from which hung articles of dejected clothing, its shaky iron bedstead with sagging springs and the lumpy mattress upon which her Self lay, half dressed and half conscious, too bored to care whether she waked or slept . . .

Weariness and disconsolation were eloquent in her posture as she rested on her side, a hand between her head and the emaciated pillow, and written legibly in bluish shadows under listless eyes, in sallow cheeks whose normal hue was clearest pallor barely warmed by glowing health, in the unstudied disarray of her masses of fine black hair, in the sullen cast of her firm-lipped mouth.

A matter of far thunder swelled and died.

The girl moved only her eyes, looking up to a window that revealed the storm-black sky.

What mattered it to her whether or not it rained? She was condemned, apparently, to endless imprisonment in this dismal place whose threshold her foot had not crossed in so many days she had lost count of them.

The room grew dark, the sky more savage. A sword of lightning slashed the gloom, and again distant thunder bodeed and grumbled into silence.

By the port the clock whose stridulation was the only voice her hiding place had heard in days, the hour was barely five.

She wondered why she had taken the trouble to look. What was the use of it, this keeping count of time? What was time indeed but waste, one long-drawn torment of waiting in idleness and impotence for the sign that never came to set her free?

She could have shrieked for sheer exasperation of mind without alloy. She told herself that anything were better than such a fate as this. Why not shriek till her cries fetched the police? Or, better still, arise, go forth, and court arrest? A cell in the Tombs were preferable to this place of dubious security. Was she less a prisoner here than she would be there?

But she did not shriek, she did not move, she did nothing, but remained as she had been on awakening from the desolating stupidity of unneeded sleep, so still she scarcely seemed a living, breathing being.

More lurid lightning, a deeper diapason of thunder, again that breathless hush . . .

Of a sudden she left the bed and in one soundless bound gained the middle of the floor, where she paused in the crouch of a hunted thing at bay, her wide gaze fastened to the door.

Through a wait so long that she concluded her hearing must have been at fault, she heard nothing. She relaxed, drew a deep breath—and grew rigid with alarm when she heard the noise repeated, a stealthy knocking on the panels.

With an ear to the crack between door and frame she seemed to detect a panting murmur: "Nora! . . . Nora! . . ."

She called guardedly: "Who's there?" A voice of greater confidence replied: "Me—Charlie—let me in!" She drew a bolt and turned the knob, distrustfully opening the door a few inches with a shoulder to it, prepared to slam it shut with all her might should she find cause to think she was being tricked. In the outer murk, the pale contour of a face she knew was just discernible. She stood aside and let its owner enter.

"Well? What do you want?"

The Coke returned a twisted, placating grimace.

"I don't want nothin'. Red sent me to tell yuh he wants yuh."

"Red?" She caught her breath sharply. "Where—?"

"I dassent tell. He made me take me oath. But he wants yuh."

"When? How?"

"T'night. He says it's all right. Ristori's kep' his trap shut. Th' bulls ain't wise to Red and Leo's hang-out. He wants yuh shou'd come to him t'night."

"He does?" There was a trace of challenge in her tone that was less disguised when, after brief deliberation, she demanded: "Suppose I don't? What if the bulls pipe me in the street? Suppose I don't come?"

The dope slave shuffled spasmodically.

RIGHT ON VERGE OF A COLLAPSE

Philadelphia Woman Had About Lost Her Strength Completely—Gains 20 Pounds.

"Before taking Tanlac I was so weak and nervous at times I couldn't hold a broom to do a little sweeping but the medicine has built me up about twenty pounds in weight and I am so strong now I can do my housework easily," said Mrs. Mary Kilpatrick, 1504 North Seventh street, Philadelphia, Pa., recently.

"I suffered a general break down several months ago following the terrible epidemic of influenza which visited Philadelphia. The loss of my daughter and my brother, together with the hardships brought on by the epidemic, seemed to take my strength completely.

"I had a nervous form of indigestion, and what little I ate did not seem to do me any good. I had terrible headaches and dizzy spells after eating and was so sick I could scarcely stay up. I got so nervous at times it seemed that I would go distracted, and I was on the verge of a general collapse.

"But it wasn't long after my husband heard about Tanlac and brought me a bottle before I noticed a big improvement in my condition. My appetite improved right away, and now my food tastes so well I want to be eating all the time, and my digestion is in the best of condition. I don't have headaches or dizzy spells, and my nerves are calm and steady, and I sleep like a child every night and get up mornings feeling fine. All the credit and praise for my present good health are due Tanlac, and I expect to keep some of this grand medicine on hand all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Connellsville by all leading druggists.—Adv.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the Spring of 1903 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but each relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and I have never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly affected and even bedridden with rheumatism, some of them 20 to 30 years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatism to decide to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to you. JOHNNY POLLOCK TO MEET YOUNG PIAZZA HERE NOV. 15

Arranging Bout Insures Excellent Show For Fight Fans.

ANOTHER YET TO COME

Johnny Pollock, the popular little boxer of Dawson, will be the big attraction in the opening bout of the next show of the Lafayette A. C. on Monday, November 15. The fast coming Pollock has been paired off to meet the best boy that he has yet gone against. Young Piazza of Pittsburg has been selected to mingle with Johnny in the first frame of six rounds. Piazza is considered one of the toughest little fighters of the Smoky City. He has a stiff of victories that any boy should be proud of. Piazza like Pollock carries a knockout punch in either hand. The bout promises to be full of fireworks.

With the opening bout arranged and the details of the main bout of 10 rounds completed between Chalky Wimler of Connellsville and Tommy Ryan of McKeesport the show begins to loom up as one of the best boxing attractions ever booked here. Unusual interest has been created by the meeting of Wimler and Ryan. Local fight fans fully realize that they are to witness big time shows in the sixty minute which is the aim of the local club. Wimler has been selected to box the second main bout of the opening of the new Motor Square Garden club in Pittsburg next Saturday night. If Wimler is good enough for fight fans of such a large city as Pittsburg he should be more than an attraction in a city the size of Connellsville.

One more bout remains to be completed. Out of the eight round semi-final Matchmaker Duke Barry is after an attraction that will be on a par with the main contest. As soon as he has signed the boxers for the second bout they will be announced.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT.

THE UNHAPPY WIFE.—A great photoplay which every woman and man should see is today's feature attraction and will be presented to morrow. It is a tremendously absorbing and clean drama of entertainment. It is a strong and pleasing story of modern life. Alice Brady is supported by an all star cast. As seen in the leading role the Unhappy Wife is doing—and doing grandly—the work each mother should do for her own daughter and each father for his own son. It is teaching the girls that the world is full of scoundrels of the male persuasion who make it a business by the help of honeyed words and all sorts of hypocritical pretensions to decoy inexperienced young girls from home and mother, from parents and happiness down perfumed flowered pathway. It doesn't hurt anybody to be brought face to face with the truth specially when all that life is worth living for is at stake.

THE ORPHEUM

FIREBRAND TREVISION. With Buck Jones, the sensation of the screen, in the leading role is being shown today. Nothing finer in cowboy life daring romance has been shown upon the screen. It is a story of singular charm and reverence and is acted by a star who is a real cowboy. The story is one of conflict, adventure, both the property and the romance of a daring young westerner. It is packed with wholesome excitement including stunts by the star which are marvelous. The perils they involve. The interest for instant and the love theme is handled with great eloquence. Winifred Westover writes very sweetheart who is wooed and won in a rather crude manner. Other strong cast includes Joe Rickard, Katherine Van Buren and Pat Hartman. Thomas Heffron directed the picture. Tomorrow Alice Brady, the beautiful screen star will be seen in The World to Live In, a picture which will appeal to all classes.

THE SOISSON.

THE MUTINY OF THE ELSINORE. Adapted from Jack London's celebrated novel with Wallace Beery and Helen Ferguson in the leading roles is being presented today. The picture may best be described as one which will make your hair rise for it develops all of the power inherent in the source itself, that of Jack London's stirring story of a conflict between men of the sea. More than this however the picture presents an exciting portrayal of life on a sailing ship where the mutiny of the ship's crew who have been recruited from the dives of Frisco is put down by the iron hand of John Pike, the sailing vessel's first mate.

The story of The Mutiny of the Elsinore contains the ambitions of Andrews, Mate of the second mate of the vessel, to command the ship. Half crazed by his desire Melville kills and guns who compels the crew to mutiny which is finally put down by the iron hand of John Pike.
